David Hattner is a great conductor and a terrific educator and motivator for the young generation in Portland. During his tenure at the PYP I have seen the orchestra grow artistically to new heights. David is very passionate about his work, he is thorough with the youngsters, encouraging with all of them, and he has a wonderful sense of what the young musicians need, both program-wise and during rehearsal and concert.

— Carlos Kalmar, Music Director,
Oregon Symphony and Grant Park Orchestra
Principal Conductor

DAVID HATTNER is the fifth Music Director in the 90-year history of the Portland Youth Philharmonic and the first to be born in America. During the 2012-2013 season, he conducted three programs with the Oregon Symphony, after making his conducting debut there in 2011, and also served as cover conductor. Mr. Hattner's other recent local appearances were with the Eugene Symphony Orchestra, University of Oregon Symphony, Oregon State University Wind Ensemble and Portland's FearNoMusic. He has appeared as guest conductor with the Cincinnati Chamber Orchestra, Interlochen Philharmonic, Brooklyn Symphony Orchestra and Ensemble Sospeso. In 2007 he conducted live performances of Jason Staczek's score to Guy Maddin's silent film Brand Upon the Brain in Chicago, Los Angeles, Seattle, Portland and São Paulo, Brazil. David Hattner was invited to participate in the American Academy of Conducting at the Aspen Music Festival in 2003, 2005 and 2006, studying with David Zinman, Murry Sidlin and others. He is an honors graduate in clarinet of Northwestern University, where he studied with the late Robert Marcellus. The PORTLAND YOUTH PHILHARMONIC (PYP), celebrating its 90th season, is a vibrant community where young people can explore their passion for music, grow as individuals and make lifelong friendships. The Portland Youth Philharmonic Association has been known for its artistry, adventurous programming and excellent performances since Jacques Gershkovitch conducted its inaugural concert on February 14, 1925. Officially founded in 1924, the Portland Youth Philharmonic was the first established youth orchestra in the country and became a model for youth orchestras that followed in other cities decades later. The orchestra has broadcast performances overseas, toured internationally eight times, represented the United States at the Banff International Festival of Youth Orchestras in 1998, and performed at Carnegie Hall in 2004. Over the years, thousands of young musicians have played in PYP. Today they are found performing in professional orchestras from the Boston Symphony to the Komische Oper Berlin, teaching in conservatories like Juilliard and Oberlin, performing in local professional ensembles from the Oregon Symphony to Pink Martini, playing in amateur ensembles in communities near and far, and teaching in public schools and private studios. Each year PYP provides music education and training for 300 young musicians aged 7–23 in the Philharmonic Orchestra, Conservatory Orchestra, Wind Ensemble, Young String Ensemble and Camerata PYP (Chamber Orchestra). Following a rigorous audition process, musicians from 100 schools throughout Northwest Oregon and Southwest Washington commit to weekly rehearsals and an active performance schedule. The experiences of theory classes, leadership training, chamber music ensembles, professional coaches, leadership responsibilities, peer mentor teaching opportunities and touring allow musicians to develop additional skills, experience new repertoire, perform for diverse audiences, and have opportunities to grow as leaders.
